

Global Affairs Summer Scholars Programme (GASS)

1-5 July, 2019 · 3rd edition

Participants

- 9 students.
- 16-18 years old.
- Wide-range of backgrounds.
- Coming from different high-schools around the country.

Interested in...

- Climate crisis
- Human rights
- International development
- Democracy
- Peace-building
- International relations

Our students said

"The course gave me a reality shock and taught me how we can think critically about it".
Denisa Pavel.

"I could not only learn from professors experts in their fields, but also from peers with different backgrounds" Imre Badia.

"GASS helped me to gain awareness of current affairs, which increased my interest in the international relations field".
Jerico Agdan.

Average rate: 4,5

About

The Global Affairs Summer Scholars Programme (GASS) is an intensive, one-week pre-university programme in international affairs.

GASS is a one-of-a-kind opportunity for students to gain first-hand exposure to the topic, while also getting a first taste of their future life as a university student.

Taught in English and organised by the Barcelona International Public Policy Hub (BIPP HUB) and the Institut de Barcelona d'Estudis Internacionals (IBEI).

www.bipp.org